COMMENTS FROM THE OFFICE OF THE TOWN MANAGER

In answer to the many complaints we receive here in the office regarding the fact we have not sent the tax bills as yet, it is apparent there is a great amount of misconception as to how the tax system is governed by law.

First, the law is very specific that it is illegal for a tax collector to make judgments as to assessments. This must be done by the assessors. In many smaller municipalities such as ours who employ a full time person it is expected that person will assume the responsibility of getting the assessing done but at the same time he cannot do anything except what he is told to do by assessors. For the most part local assessors in communities with valuations as high as ours realize they cannot, due to lack of time and sometimes knowledge make the necessary judgments for a fair assessment, therefore they rely on hired professionals who are trained for this work. As these people do work for us when they have time available away from their regular positions we must wait until it is convenient for them to be here. This results in long waiting periods before we here in the office, can do our part, which is getting the tax bills to the taxpayer.

WIPE OUT GERMAN MEASLES WEEK STARTS SEPT. 20

Mrs. Alvin Stevens, chairman of the Bethel pre-school German measles immunization clinic, attended a final planning meeting for "Wipe Out German Measles Week" at Rumford Community Hospital on Friday. During the week of Sept. 20, pre-school and school clinics will take place throughout the Greater Rumford Area. The pre-school clinics are sponsored by the Rumford Community Hospital with the cooperation of the Department of Health and Welfare and area public health nurses.

The Bethel clinic will be held at the Congregational Church on Sunday, Sept. 20, from 1 to 3 p. m. Those unable to attend may go to the Rumford Community Hospital clinic on Wednesday, Sept. 23, from 7 to 8 p. m. Those who do not attend on Sunday will have immunizations given by the new jet gun pressure method. This allows vaccinations to be given faster—almost painlessly as no needles are used. Transportation will be available for the Sunday clinic for those living in outlying areas, and this will be announced next week.

Mrs. Stevens has also arranged with the Bethel PTA to hold a special community education program on the importance of German Measles immunizations. This will take place on Tuesday, Sept. 15 at the Casco Bank meeting room from 4 to 5 p. m. and at Telstar High School auditorium from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m. Head Start parents and former Head Start parents are cordially invited to attend. A film "Stop Rubella" (with TV's cast of Julia) will be followed by a question and answer period. Free publications will be distributed. Mrs. Rosabelle Tift, hospital public relations director, will assist.

P. U. C. DECREE DISMISSES PHONE SERVICE COMPLAINT

The Maine Public Utilities Commission last week dismissed a complaint requesting investigation of antiquated equipment, poor service and serious lack of concern for its customers by the Maine State Telephone Company in the Bethel area.

Following the complaint by 107 persons by petition on Dec. 23, 1968, the Commission requested the utility to remove the cause of the complaints. Maine State Telephone requested added time to investigate the causes, which was granted by the Commission.

An evaluation of the Maine State Telephone Company's progress report has been made by the P.U.C., and it is the Commission's opinion that with added improvements the complaint's cause have been removed.

The Commission's dismissal order also noted that no further communication had been received from the petitioners, and that the improvements will provide whatever grade of service the customers desire.

The order also stated that the service area involved in the complaint was that previously owned by the Van Telephone Company; and at the time it was acquired by the Maine State Telephone Company, it was a known fact that certain improvements would be necessary to improve service to customers in the Bethel, West Bethel, Upton and Locke Mills exchanges.

GREENWOOD CITY

Mrs. Collette Morgan, Corres.
Where the road curved I saw the hillside sunlight beyond, and it made me turn aside to climb high up. The valley and streams were clearly outlined and showed my friends and me the beauty just before the flaming colors of autumn.

As we neared the top there was a suspension as if the stage was set for us behind a velvet curtain and we waited for it to be drawn aside. Before us lay a magnificent view: masterful mountains, gentle hills, a broad valley, fields and woods, brooks and a river far below; while several shades of green banked against the horizon.

There was a softness in the September air as it laughed at summer. Occasionally there was a bright pennant against a green background.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Rowe and two children of Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rolfe and family of Vermont, Corn., and Howard Rolfe of

A reminder that we are truly sliding downhill toward autumn.

It was a lovely untroubled time so we just sat on this massive granite top and watched the shadows, the change of clouds, the river so rocky and low as it moved on into the forest.

We were visited by the jolly minstrels. Shiny black crickets stood at their door and sang their songs o'er and o'er.

Then came the grasshopper clack-clacking his four wings together to be free across the warm granite to join others, each making his own music.

Before us danced the humblebees and "Gleaming red veined in jet, Dotted with pearls of ebony set: Sky-horned monarch, immigrant, Northwest lured by a milkweed plant."

It was slipping necker from a yellow flower growing from the crevices in the rocks which resembled the undesirable intruder in our pasture lands, the New England White. Time passed and still we sat and stewed the mountains and stream. The latter with successions of silent pools linked together by little currents with silvery glimmering ripples.

When winter clouds have bloomed and this stream again is replenished the torrents will chant their anthems and I'd like to be in that very spot to see.

Flying up before us and stopping for a greeting was the lovely purple linch. He paused long enough to greet us with his mellow, fluty voice tuned to gladness, free and happy; then away he flew.

Now came the time to descend the trail so we hiked back into the heart of the groves and went down to the stream's edge. Here we ate our lunch and noted that the better part of the day had vanished. The sky was beginning to be smothered in clouds. As for a wide view now, it was beginning to diminish. However, no rain until we were nearly home.

I thought of the ways of the clouds and how they come and go like up heaved mountains. I could hear again the sheet music of the wind and the water-written music of the river-line pushing on and on to the sea.

"Harken to the song of the trail, Echoing from the hillside glade: Stay awhile to rest and dream Beneath a refreshing forest shade". (P. F. Freeman)

Funeral services were held at 3:30 Sunday afternoon, Sept. 6, at the Greenleaf funeral home for James Johnston, who died at his home on High Street Thursday afternoon, Sept. 3, after a brief illness. A member of the Mundt-Allen Post #81, American Legion, and Barracks #2943, Veterans of World War I, he was attended by fellow Legionnaires, who presented the American flag to his widow, Eva C. Johnston, following ceremonies at graveside. Bearers were Roderick McMillin, Dana Brooks, Vernon Brown, Dale Thurston, Elmer Bean Jr., Thomas Ken-nan, Ernest Angevine and Sam McCoy. Fellow Legionnaires also in attendance were Paul Head, Daniel Forbes, Joseph Perry, Harry Taylor, and Albert Skillings, Orlando Fraser, U. S. N., folded the flag.

Ct solid Scottish ancestry Mr. Johnston was born Jan. 17, 1890, the son of Ernest L. and Mabel Campbell Johnston, in Kingfield, Maine. His early boyhood was spent in Smyrna Mills, where he attended the local schools. As a young man he was employed for many years by the Great Northern Paper Co. as a woodman. Upon completion of his apprenticeship he became a skilled professional in the various aspects of the lumbering trade as it was conducted then. He was a white-water man.

On Sept. 10, 1917, he entered the U. S. Army and served two years. In October, 1918, while serving overseas in combat he was promoted to Sergeant in Company C, 30th Infantry Division.

He was married Sept. 19, 1919, to Eva Carrigan, of Lewiston, who survives him, as do a son Leslie L. Johnston of South Deerfield, Mass., a daughter, Mabel Reynolds of San Jose, Calif., and a daughter, Geneva J. McCoy of Bethel, four grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

Thoroughly familiar with the great forests and streams of the northern Maine wilderness, Mr. Johnston was a man with a deep appreciation of Nature and great affection for its creatures. Animals responded to his kindness often in a remarkable way. To his family, friends, and acquaintances he was known for his exceptional generosity and goodwill. He was a man of charm with a twinkle in his eye and robust humor that always lifted the spirits of those he met. The stories he loved to tell about his early life in the great woods and his Army days were embellished with the flourishes of an active imagination and never failed to interest and entertain. With his family and friends his memory will always abide; the memory of a man who met the adversities of life with courage and overcame its hardships to live a useful and successful life in the truest sense of the word.
